JURORS ABSOLVE BRADLEY

Davey's Perjury Charges Against Witness Fail To Gain Indictment

TESTIMONY DECLINED

Defendant Refused Right To Tell Story

CLEVELAND, April 15—(UP)—The Cuyahoga county grand jury, which considered perjury charges brought by Gov. Martin L. Davey against Lee Bradley of Cleveland, today failed to return an indictment against Bradley.

The grand jury deliberated a half hour.

Gov. Davey had accused Bradley of giving false testimony when he told the Ohio senate graft investigating committee recently that he acted as "contact man" for Davey in 1934, soliciting campaign contributions from automobile and utility firms.

The governor and his brother, Paul, and L. L. Tremper, regional sales manager for the General Motors Truck Corp., had testified before the grand jury last Wednesday. Bradley asked permission to be heard by the grand jury, but his request was refused.

Bradley was employed by the Davey Tree Expert Co. and the Davey Air Compressor Co. in 1934. He told the graft investigating committee, and later reiterated in a Cleveland municipal court hearing, that he arranged a meeting in New York between Davey and Tremper.

Bradley also had testified that he arranged for a $25,000 campaign contribution from a General Motors subsidiary in return for the promise of 50 percent of the state's business if Davey were elected.

Bradley told of another arrangement whereby certain utilities in return for a $175,000. Gov. Davey, testifying in Municipal Judge Burt W. Griffin's court, denied that Bradley had solicited campaign funds at his direction and said that Bradley merely was a salesman for the Davey firms.

BULKLEY'S BILL FOR SUPER-ROAD TO BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Sen. Robert J. Bulkley's super-highway bill apparently was bottled up today after the senate refused to reconsider a motion referring it to the postoffice and post roads committee from the banking and currency committee.

The senate rejected, 32 to 29, a motion by Sen. Harry Truman, D., Mo., to reconsider the vote by which Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn., had it taken from the banking and currency committees and referred to his own group.

The banking and currency committee of which Bulkley is a member, had started consideration of the measure in sub-committee before McKellar's action.

WESLEY EARL GRAY, 22, who tried unsuccessfully to extort $10,000 from Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, under threat of death, faces a 20-year prison term. FAMILY OF FIVE TO SAVE $1 WEEK ON FOOD COSTS

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Food costs have declined 10 percent since last September, cutting approximately $1 a week from costs of the average city family of five, a nationwide survey by the department of agriculture showed today.

"Prices of most foods, particularly meats, probably will continue at levels considerably below last year during the next few months," D. E. Montgomery, consumers' counsel, said.

Fresh fruits and vegetables registered the sharpest decline, while meats also were cheaper. The former declined 25 percent and the latter 19 percent.

On April 1 prices of butter, eggs, beef, fresh pork, lamb and lard were the lowest level since 1937. The bureau of labor statistics reported February food costs at 78.4 percent of the 1923-25 average.

"Beef prices probably will ease off some more, but the drop most likely will be small when compared with the sharp changes since October," Montgomery said. "Lamb prices are expected to be sharply below a year ago."

BLIND YOUTH, 14, FOUND IN CITY AFTER RUNAWAY

Travels of a 14-year-old youth who ran away from the Columbus school for the Blind, Wednesday, ended in Circleville Thursday night.

The youth, who gave his name as Vernon Pillivant, was apprehended by Walter Crissinger, deputy sheriff and merchant officer, on W. Main street. The youth stopped at a filling station to ask the way to Chillicothe. His bad eyesight aroused suspicion.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the youth was blind in one eye and the sight in the other was not normal. He told officers that Elyria is his home.

The youth was taken to the sheriff's department, then returned to the school. Sheriff Radcliff was informed a second youth, whose sight was somewhat better than that of Pillivant, had run away from the school. They were believed traveling together. Officers could not find the second youth.

NO OPPOSITION HEARD AGAINST MAJOR PROJECT

Engineer To Urge Highway Chief To Give Approval To $400,000 Job

Frank W. Turner, of Washington C. H., state highway engineer for Division No. 6, said Friday at the conclusion of a public hearing on the Route 22 project, west of Circleville, that he would recommend to the state director of highways that the improvement be made.

Not a single protest against the project was made at the hearing, conducted by the division engineer in the Common Pleas court room. Interested property owners praised the project from a civic standpoint. About 25 persons attended the hearing.

The roadway improvement, covering about 7,500 feet and involving an expenditure of approximately $400,000 in state and federal funds, would make the highway passable during flood seasons. It is a main traffic artery westward from Circleville.

Some of Road Used

A considerable portion of the present highway west of the river bridge would be used in improvement. The first curve west of the bridge would be eased. Beginning at the second curve west of the bridge the new highway will be extended in a long curve north of the present location. The new highway will pass between the Bass and Foreman homes and rejoin the highway at the Howard L. Thomas property.

The present roadway would be raised eight feet and three trestles, covering a distance of 1,800 feet, would be constructed.

Stones from the old aqueduct piers and the west abutment would be used in the construction of spillways. The new roadway would be 20 feet wide and constructed of concrete.

State highway engineers contend the improvement will make no change in the existing flow of the water. The abandoned section of the highway would be added to the county system.

LANCASTER AGE PENSION CHIEF FACES CHARGES

LANCASTER, April 15—Miss Josephine Justus, Democratic committeewoman for the 11th Ohio congressional district, was under a Fairfield county indictment Friday charging "obtaining an old age pension by false representation."

It charges further that Miss Justus held $21,000 in real estate and government bonds at the time she obtained the pension for her father.

The jurors started investigation of the Justus charges Tuesday afternoon. She was bound to the grand jury March 12 by Justice Joseph Gray of Clearcreek township. She is free under $300 bond.

Miss Justus is on a leave of absence from her position as Fairfield county old age pension administratrix. Her alleged act took place before she assumed the post.

As attorney for the Ohio League of Women Voters, Bettman had written Duffy offering his aid in seeking legal means of opposing such an assessment.

Duffy said he would be in Cincinnati next Tuesday and would be glad to meet Bettman then. So far we have received no complaint from the Civil Service Commission or from any classified employee."

POWER COMPANY CUTS OFF LIGHTS IN BITTER FIGHT

THAYER, Mo., April 15—(UP)—Citizens of this Southern Missouri town today faced the prospect of four months of lightless nights because of a dispute with the Arkansas-Missouri Power Service company.

The company stopped all light and power service yesterday when the city refused to abandon plans to construct a municipal utility plant. Home owners prepared themselves with candles, lamps, and lanterns, and generally agreed that they could "get along nicely" until the plant is completed in about four months.

R. H. Williams, president of the city council, said that the action of the Arkansas-Missouri company culminated a long legal fight which began when Thayer voters passed a bond issue for construction of the plant. Williams said that the city would not ask for restoration of service by the utility company.

CITY PAUSES AS CHURCHES HOLD FRIDAY SERVICES

Congregations Gather For Annual Exercises In Afternoon

Business in Circleville paused for an hour Friday afternoon while residents attended Good Friday church services.

Union services for members of all churches were held in First Methodist Episcopal church with the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of First Presbyterian church, preaching the sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey spoke on the theme "The Humble Galilean." His text was found in John 19:18. "And with Him two others, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst." The pastor emphasized the fact that there were three crosses on Calvary and without the three, Calvary was not complete. "One cross does not reveal the Humble Galilean fully," the speaker said.

He pointed out that Christ was humble, a man among men, a man among men's crosses, a man in the midst of men's crosses. "The three that died on Calvary were condemned for the same reason, their activities were contrary to the state," he said.

Did Not Die Alone

"The message of Good Friday is that we are not to forget that Christ died in the midst of men's cross and herein is the uniqueness of Jesus. Jesus did not die alone. He died between two thieves. This shows that salvation involves others, even as He died for the penitent thief. He achieved it by humble suffering, our success lies in our suffering with Him."

WASHINGTON C. H. RAPS PEDDLERS IN LEGAL STEP

WASHINGTON C. H., April 15—City council took action at its meeting this week to end competition provided local merchants by itinerant vendors.

A fine of not less than $50 is ordered in an ordinance passed against solicitors, peddlers, itinerant vendors, hawkers and anyone else who solicits or sells from door to door.

The council tightened traffic regulations also by making it a misdemeanor for any motor vehicle to park in any public street between 7 a. m. and midnight in such a way that other vehicles must pass over the center of the street in order to get around them. A fine of $25 is provided for violation of the act.

It will also prevent parking of long trucks head-in at the curb.

IF AND when President Roosevelt's relief and business pump-priming program is adopted, the four men pictured above will be even more important in the national picture as public works' builders, relief spenders and business leaders. And their visits to the White House will be more frequent. It will be through their organizations that credit and dollars will flow. The four are Harold L. Ickes, secretary of interior, directing the Public Works Administration; Harry L. Hopkins, director, and Aubrey Williams, assistant director, of the Works Progress Administration; and Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

CHINESE LEADER WOUNDED DURING AIR RAID, REPORT

TOKYO, April 15—(UP)—The foreign office asserted today that it had received reliable reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had been wounded in both legs during the Japanese bombing of Changsha on April 10.

The foreign office spokesman added that the same reports indicated that T. V. Soong, Chiang's brother-in-law and China's minister of aviation, had been wounded in the stomach and right arm. The spokesman said that nothing further was known and he refused to state the source of his information. The navy department said it had heard the report, but was unable to verify it.

It was recalled that on April 11 Japanese vernacular newspapers reported that Chiang had been killed. The Chinese government denied that Chiang and Soong were in Changsha the day of the bombing.

ECONOMY PLANS JUNKED AS F. D. TELLS POLICIES

Potential Expansion of Credit Expected To Aid Prosperity

WAGE-HOUR ACT ASKED

Administration Leaders See Approval

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—President Roosevelt today dedicated his $4,512,000,000 depression lending-spending campaign, backed by $39,000,000,000 of potential credit expansion, to distributing prosperity among all the people.

To that end, he shot millions of idle gold into the credit-spending pool and notified congressmen last night in a fireside chat to their constituents, that he wants a wages and hours bill passed at this session.

Congressional leaders were confident that the new recovery program could be enacted. First surveys of congressional sentiment revealed opposition to pump priming tactics, but less strong than that which finally junked the government reorganization bill last week. Congressmen are coming up for re-election this Fall and they are likely to vote for anything that promises to bring prosperity.

Purse Strings Cut

In swift reversal of balance-the-budget economy plans the New Deal snipped federal purse strings. Explaining his new strategy last night to a nationwide radio audience, Mr. Roosevelt called for popular support of a government strong enough to cope with "the forces of business depression."

He said dictatorships grew out of weak and helpless governments, not out of those which were strong. His chat was conciliatory with a good word for the merchant—big and little—and the banker who had pride in his community.

The chat and a pump-priming message to congress which preceded it moved the Roosevelt administration into its second great drive against depression. Close associates of the President said the chat and message opened the 1938 general election campaign.

Immediate results were: 1. Transfer of $1,392,000,000 of idle gold to the governments credit for expenditures on pork relief and other projects during the next fiscal year.

2. Report of a wage-hours bill by the house labor committee with a recommendation that it be passed.

3. Renewed congressional consideration of removing tax exemptions from future issues of federal and state bonds, of making government salaries from all sources subject to federal and state income taxation, and of reorganizing federal supervision of banking.

4. Development of a congressional movement to earmark new public works spending for specific projects rather than to sign a blank check for the President.

5. Possible revival of 3,000 approved and pending P.W.A. projects which could be financed under the program as outlined.

Questions, Answers On F.D.'s Plan

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Here, in question and answer form, is an outline of President Roosevelt's new recovery program:

Q. General speaking, what does the President's program provide? A. New government spending, new government lending and a series of steps to encourage banks to lend money and extend credit.

Q. How much does Mr. Roosevelt propose to spend? A. His program calls for new spending of $1,612,000,000. In addition to this, probably $750,000,000 will be needed next January to run the Works Progress Administration from Feb. 1, 1939 to June 30, 1939.

Q. How will this money be spent? A. The President wants $1,250,000,000 for W. P. A. jobs from July 1 to Feb. 1, 1939; $750,000,000 for farm relief; $750,000,000 for the National Youth Administration (aid to students, etc.); $500,000,000 for the Civilian Conservation Corps (maintain present number of camps); $100,000,000 for highways; $37,000,000 for flood control (dikes, levees); $25,000,000 for additional federal buildings.

Q. What is the lending program? A. This calls for $1,000,000,000 for the Public Works Administration to be lent and given to towns, cities and states for local construction projects and $300,000,000 for the U. S. Housing authority to be lent to cities desirous of clearing slums and erecting low-rent housing projects.

Q. What moves are proposed to encourage lending and credit extension? A. There are several. First, the treasury yesterday released $1,391,000,000 in segregated gold. Next, the Federal Reserve board will relax what are known as bank reserve requirements by $750,000,000. Finally active credit will be created by every dollar lent or spent by the government.

Q. What does it mean to release segregated gold? A. It means the government uses idle gold to set up new credit at the Federal Reserve banks. This was done yesterday and it increased the government's bank balances by $1,391,000,000. Now, with balances swelled by the new government deposits, the banks are ready to lend industry and business much more money.

Q. How much more can they lend? A. Statisticians estimate that from eight to ten dollars can be lent for each dollar of this new government deposit. That means the banks could lend—if borrowers appeared—some 11 to 13 billion dollars more today than they could yesterday.

Q. What is meant by relaxing Federal Reserve requirements? A. It means banks are allowed to maintain a smaller ratio of cash to deposits than previously.

Q. Have the requirements been relaxed yet? A. No. They probably will be relaxed in a day or two. This will enable banks to lend six to seven and one-half billion dollars more.

Q. How about credit expansion from government spending? A. That will appear more gradually. (Continued on Page Three)

CLEVELAND, April 15—(UP)—The Cuyahoga county grand jury, which considered perjury charges brought by Gov. Martin L. Davey against Lee Bradley of Cleveland, today failed to return an indictment against Bradley.

The grand jury deliberated a half hour.

Gov. Davey had accused Bradley of giving false testimony when he told the Ohio senate graft investigating committee recently that he acted as "contact man" for Davey in 1934, soliciting campaign contributions from automobile and utility firms.

The governor and his brother, Paul, and L. L. Tremper, regional sales manager for the General Motors Truck Corp., had testified before the grand jury last Wednesday. Bradley asked permission to be heard by the grand jury, but his request was refused.

Bradley was employed by the Davey Tree Expert Co. and the Davey Air Compressor Co. in 1934. He told the graft investigating committee, and later reiterated in a Cleveland municipal court hearing, that he arranged a meeting in New York between Davey and Tremper.

Bradley also had testified that he arranged for a $25,000 campaign contribution from a General Motors subsidiary in return for the promise of 50 percent of the state's business if Davey were elected.

Bradley told of another arrangement whereby certain utilities interested were to contribute $175,000. Gov. Davey, testifying in Municipal Judge Burt W. Griffin's court, denied that Bradley had solicited campaign funds at his direction and said that Bradley merely was a salesman for the Davey firms.

BULKLEY'S BILL FOR SUPER-ROAD TO BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Sen. Robert J. Bulkley's super-highway bill apparently was bottled up today after the senate refused to reconsider a motion referring it to the postoffice and post roads committee from the banking and currency committee. The senate rejected, 32 to 29, a motion by Sen. Harry Truman, D., Mo., to reconsider the vote by which Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn., had it taken from the banking and currency committees and referred to his own group.

The banking and currency committee of which Bulkley is a member, had started consideration of the measure in sub-committee before McKellar's action.

FAMILY OF FIVE TO SAVE $1 WEEK ON FOOD COSTS

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Food costs have declined 10 percent since last September, cutting approximately $1 a week from costs of the average city family of five, a nationwide survey by the department of agriculture showed today.

"Prices of most foods, particularly meats, probably will continue at levels considerably below last year during the next few months," D. E. Montgomery, consumers' counsel, said.

Fresh fruits and vegetables registered the sharpest decline, while meats also were cheaper. The former declined 25 percent and the latter 19 percent.

On April 1 prices of butter, eggs, beef, fresh pork, lamb and lard were the lowest level since 1937. The bureau of labor statistics reported February food costs at 78.4 percent of the 1923-25 average.

"Beef prices probably will ease off some more, but the drop most likely will be small when compared with the sharp changes since October," Montgomery said. "Lamb prices are expected to be sharply below a year ago."

CHINESE LEADER SOLONS TO HEAR WOUNDED DURING F. D.'S MESSAGE AIR RAID, REPORT ON TAX DESIRES

TOKYO, April 15—(UP)—The foreign office asserted today that it had received reliable reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had been wounded in both legs during the Japanese bombing of Changsha on April 10.

The foreign office spokesman added that the same reports indicated that T. V. Soong, Chiang's brother-in-law and China's minister of aviation, had been wounded in the stomach and right arm. The spokesman said that nothing further was known and he refused to state the source of his information. The navy department said it had heard the report, but was unable to verify it.

It was recalled that on April 11 Japanese vernacular newspapers reported that Chiang had been killed. The Chinese government denied that Chiang and Soong were in Changsha the day of the bombing.

MARY NEWMYER RESTING WELL AFTER ACCIDENT

Miss Mary Newmyer, 18, of 546 N. Court street, is recovering at her home from shock, severe bruises and abrasions, received Thursday when a motorcycle she was riding failed to make a turn into a W. High street alley and struck a curb at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Neff. Her injuries are not believed serious.

Miss Newmyer was riding the motorcycle of George Rader, E. Mill street. In attempting to make the turn she turned off the gasoline instead of turning it off.

Miss Newmyer is a Circleville high school senior.

Questions, Answers On F. D.'s Plan

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Here, in question and answer form, is an outline of President Roosevelt's new recovery program:

Q. General speaking, what does the President's program provide? A. New government spending, new government lending and a series of steps to encourage banks to lend money and extend credit.

Q. How much does Mr. Roosevelt propose to spend? A. His program calls for new spending of $1,612,000,000. In addition to this, probably $750,000,000 will be needed next January to run the Works Progress Administration from Feb. 1, 1939 to June 30, 1939.

Q. How will this money be spent? A. The President wants $1,250,000,000 for W. P. A. jobs from July 1 to Feb. 1, 1939; $75,000,000 for farm relief; $75,000,000 for the National Youth Administration (aid to students, etc.); $50,000,000 for the Civilian Conservation Corps (maintain present number of camps); $100,000,000 for highways; $37,000,000 for flood control (dikes, levees); $25,000,000 for additional federal buildings.

Q. What is the lending program? A. This calls for $1,000,000,000 for the Public Works Administration to be lent and given to towns, cities and states for local construction projects and $300,000,000 for the U. S. Housing authority to be lent to cities desirous of clearing slums and erecting low-rent housing projects.

Q. What moves are proposed to encourage lending and credit extension? A. There are several. First, the treasury yesterday released $1,391,000,000 in segregated gold. Next, the Federal Reserve board will relax what are known as bank reserve requirements by $750,000,000. Finally active credit will be created by every dollar lent or spent by the government.

Q. What does it mean to release segregated gold? A. It means the government uses idle gold to set up new credit at the Federal Reserve banks. This was done yesterday and it increased the government's bank balances by $1,391,000,000. Now, with balances swelled by the new government deposits, the banks are ready to lend industry and business much more money.

Q. How much more can they lend? A. Statisticians estimate

ECONOMY PLANS JUNKED AS F. D. TELLS POLICIES

Potential Expansion Of Credit Expected To Aid Prosperity

WAGE-HOUR ACT ASKED

Administration Leaders See Approval

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—President Roosevelt today dedicated his $4,512,000,000 depression lending-spending campaign, backed by $39,000,000,000 of potential credit expansion, to distributing prosperity among all the people.

To that end, he shot millions of idle gold into the credit-spending pool and notified congressmen last night in a fireside chat to their constituents, that he wants a wages and hours bill passed at this session.

Congressional leaders were confident that the new recovery program could be enacted. First surveys of congressional sentiment revealed opposition to pump priming tactics, but less strong than that which finally junked the government reorganization bill last week. Congressmen are coming up for re-election this Fall and they are likely to vote for anything that promises to bring prosperity.

Purse Strings Cut

In swift reversal of balance-the-budget economy plans the New Deal snipped federal purse strings. Explaining his new strategy last night to a nationwide radio audience, Mr. Roosevelt called for popular support of a government strong enough to cope with "the forces of business depression."

He said dictatorships grew out of weak and helpless governments, not out of those which were strong. His chat was conciliatory with a good word for the merchant—big and little—and the banker who had pride in his community.

The chat and a pump-priming message to congress which preceded it moved the Roosevelt administration into its second great drive against depression. Close associates of the President said the chat and message opened the 1938 general election campaign.

Immediate results were:

1. Transfer of $1,392,000,000 of idle gold to the governments credit for expenditures on pork relief and similar projects during the next fiscal year.

2. Report of a wage-hours bill by the house labor committee with a recommendation that it be passed.

3. Renewed congressional consideration of removing tax exemptions from future issues of federal and state bonds, of making government salaries from all sources subject to federal and state income taxation, and of reorganizing federal supervision of banking.

4. Development of a congressional movement to earmark new public works spending for specific projects rather than to sign a blank check for the President.

5. Possible revival of 3,000 approved and pending P.W.A. projects which could be financed under the program as outlined.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., said no leg-

CHILD FOUND BEATEN

Smoke Gives Authorities Clue
To Mystery

LOS ANGELES, April 15—(UP)—The nude body of seven-year-old Jenny Moreno, ravished and apparently beaten to death, was found in the weeds of a vacant lot 100 yards from her home in suburban Downey early today.

On discovering the girl's body, a mob of 100 neighbors surged to the home of Charles McLachlan, 55, and was shouting "lynch him" when sheriff's deputies rescued the man. Neighbors attracted to McLachlan's home earlier by a cloud of smoke said that they found him burning blood-spattered clothing.

McLachlan denied having molested the girl but was held for questioning.

Went Out To Play

Jenny left home to play with children in the neighborhood shortly before noon yesterday. A group of neighbors started search for her at dusk when she failed to return home.

She was criminally assaulted and slugged on the head, authorities said.

Shortly before discovery of the body, at about midnight, the searchers noticed smoke pouring from windows of McLachlan's house near the Moreno home. Fearing the house was on fire, they hammered on the door but said the man refused to let them enter.

A deputy sheriff was called and the officer, on gaining entrance, said he found McLachlan burning blood-stained garments. "They were his own, and not the girl's," his suspicions aroused because of the girl missing in the neighborhood, the officer began questioning McLachlan.

When word came of the discovery of Jenny's body a crowd gathered quickly. It learned that McLachlan had been burning clothing. A shout of "lynch him" went up. The man was roughly jostled as he was led to a sheriff's car under guard of deputies.

McLachlan, a painting contractor, said he did not see the girl yesterday.

Secret Religious Sect Conducts Annual Rites

TAOS, N. M., April 15—(UP)—Blood-spattered stones, lumber ashes and crude wooden crosses from which hung human effigies told a mute story today of Good Friday among Los Hermanos Penitentes, the secret Spanish religious sect.

Members of the religious order held their annual pre-Easter ceremonies last night. With bared feet they walked from their chapter meeting houses to the hill-top spots they had selected for their symbolic crucifixion, of Christ. There, while they themselves suffered from self-inflicted pain, they saw one of their number tied to a cross and left to hang for several minutes.

The ceremonies, conducted by numerous chapters in New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Utah and Texas, were a revival of the centuries-old custom of Los Hermanos Penitentes, the English translation of which is "the Penitent brothers."

Religion Mystery

Exactly what transpires at these religious gatherings never has been ascertained by outsiders. Although some of the members are known to authorities and to residents, they are reluctant to discuss their religion.

Several travelers reported today, however, that they had seen the crosses. Those familiar with the area knew that the religious groups had met at their chapter houses, stripped themselves of all their clothing except cotton trousers, beaten their backs with whips until they bled, and then climaxed their long ritual by walking, barefooted, across sharp mountain stones to the crucifixions.

Each individual chapter has its

SON OF FORMER LOCAL MINISTER IN 'CAREER' JOB

Emerson Logee, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Floyd E. Logee, of Bismark, N. D., has received an appointment to Washington D. C., as a "career man" in public affairs.

After a year's training in Washington furnished by the government to a select group of 30 to 35 men chosen from the graduating classes of the country's colleges, he will be assigned to one of the departments of government under special civil service classification.

Promotion within the department comes as study, experience and ability warrants, without reference to political changes taking place in appointive heads of the department.

Four representatives from Wooster college were certified by the college for application for appointment, and they were called to Cleveland recently to interview the personnel committee of the National Institute of Public Affairs. The appointment came to Mr. Logee following the Spring vacation.

In his application, Mr. Logee's preference was expressed for the department of agriculture, but no assurance is given as to what department his appointment may carry him.

His father the Rev. Mr. Logee, is a former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Circleville, leaving this charge about 12 years ago.

He said the hearing was not for the purpose of settling disputes on rights-of-way or compensation for damages. That part of the program, he said, would be handled by the right-of-way division of the state highway department.

H. M. Crites, owner of land north of Route 22, said he favored the improvement but declared he believed the three trestles would draw the water into channels causing the land to wash. He said he felt was entitled to damages. Paul Smith, son of Joseph S. Smith, owner of land on the north side of the highway, expressed a similar opinion.

Ray W. Davis, attorney for Mrs. Nannie G. Foresman, said he felt those he represented favored the improvement and the matter of compensation he believed could be satisfactorily arranged.

Attorney Richard Simkins represented Mr. Crites. Mr. Smith was represented by Attorney Max Seyfert. E. A. Brown, attorney for Charles H. and Tully Bass, was present.

A large part of the hearing time was spent in the explanation of features of the project. State engineers believe the trestles will be sufficient to take care of flow of water. Removal of the old aqueduct piers, they explained, would be a benefit.

State highway department officials present in addition to Mr. Turner were Kent Wedekind, of Columbus, assistant right-of-way engineer; R. O. Nelson, of Worthington, bridge engineer; Joseph Morrissey, of London, assistant division engineer; Henry McCready, resident engineer in Pickaway county, and Charles Mowery, Pickaway county highway superintendent.

MYSTERY SHIPS WAR VESSELS, MANILA IS TOLD

MANILA, April 15—(UP)—The 21 mysterious vessels which anchored in Davao harbor, in the southern Philippines, are warships, the collector of customs at Davao declared today in a radio message to authorities here.

"It has been established beyond doubt that warships entered Davao waters," the collector of customs wired, based on a statement and declaration of the captain of the motorship Rizal and the master of the launch Daisy.

The report also included a statement made by Mayor C. D. MacGee, retired United States army officer, who made a sketch of the vessels, the wire said. Major MacGee's statement said:

"I saw around 17 warships in column formation. I could identify the wireless but could not identify the flags or numerals of any of the ships. The mothership moved up from the rear to the front of the column. She had a low flat deck with a slightly elevated poop as the only superstructure suggesting it might have been an airplane carrier, although my assistant said she could have been a collier."

ECONOMY PLANS JUNKED AS F. D. TELLS POLICIES

Potential Expansion Of
Credit Expected To
Aid Prosperity

isolation would be necessary to effect the program except actual appropriation of the money involved and an authorization for the United States Housing authority to expand its slum clearance activities by the $300,000,000 proposed in the President's message. Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his faith in the private profit system: "It is essential in our economy that private funds be put to work and all of us recognize that such funds are entitled to a fair profit."

One of the objectives of removing tax exemption from government and state bonds would be to close that hiding place to private capital. It is estimated that the government ultimately would obtain approximately $140,000,000 of revenue annually from that source although that gain would be offset largely by higher interest payments on outstanding securities.

Labor leaders were silent under the White House admonition to help work proceed "smoothly, continuously and fairly" although George M. Harrison, of the railway brotherhoods said he supposed Mr. Roosevelt was referring to "some of these strikes around the country."

Through the message and the chat ran a continuous plea for a united front—national cooperation—in the face of necessity.

To workers, especially, Mr. Roosevelt promised better times. He said he was prepared to aid business with federal funds and expected the benefits to be shared up and down.

To Aid All People

"The government contribution of money we now make to business," he continued, "come out of the labor of all the people. It is, therefore, only sound morality, as well as a sound distribution of buying power, that the benefits of prosperity coming from the use of this money of all the people should be distributed among all the people—at the bottom as well as at the top."

"It is a big program. Last Autumn in a sincere effort to bring government expenditures and government income into closer balance, the budget I worked out called for sharp decreases in government spending."

"In the light of present conditions those estimates were far too low. This new program adds $2,062,000,000 to direct treasury expenditures and another $950,000,000 to government loans—and the latter sum, because they are loans, will come back to the treasury in the future."

"The net effect on the debt of the government is this—between now and July 1, 1939—15 months away—the treasury will have to raise less than $1,500,000,000 of new money."

Buying Power Boosted
"Such addition to the net debt of the United States need not give concern to any citizen for it will return to the people of the United States many times over in increased buying power and eventually in much greater government tax receipts because of the increase in the citizens' income."

To Mr. Roosevelt's estimate of $2,062,000,000 of direct expenditure and $950,000,000 of treasury loans is added $1,500,000,000 of just-authorized R. F. C. loans which Mr. Roosevelt included in his recovery program as outlined in yesterday's message. That completes the aggregate of a $4,512,000,000 lending-spending campaign.

"Consequently I am again expressing my hope that the congress will enact at this session a wage and hours bill putting a floor under industrial wages and a limit on working hours—to insure a better distribution of our prosperity, a better distribution of available work, and a sounder distribution of buying power."

The President ended on a personal note. "I never forget," he said, "that I live in a house owned by all the American people and that I have been given their trust."

"I always try to remember that their deepest problems are human"

"I can hear your unspoken wonder as to where we are headed in this troubled world"

"I know that I must never give up, that I must never let the greater interest of all the people down"

"I believe we have been right in the course we have charted your hopes and your help are with me to reach port we must sail—sail, not lie at anchor—sail, not drift!"

Congressmen who opposed the administration on wage and hours legislation, and on government and judiciary reorganization are expected to make a strong stand for earmarking P. W. A. funds in the program to check any inclination the administration may have to punish political sinners by withholding federal funds from their districts.

Opposition Sensed
Sensing inevitable opposition, Mr. Roosevelt spoke over the heads of congress last night directly to the people.

"You may get all kinds of impressions," he said, "in regard to the total cost of this new program, or in regard to the amount that will be added to the national debt."

A total of $3,880,000,000 will be available for lending. It was estimated that each dollar injected into the credit structure will have a credit worth of $10, plus providing for a potential credit expansion in the new program of $39,000,000,000.

With a reassuring word that "this recession" has not returned the nation to the disasters of 1929, Mr. Roosevelt explained that banks now are safe, agriculture is not deeply distressed, market speculative dangers have been minimized, national income has almost doubled since 1932 and the government has accepted permanent responsibility for relief.

His immediate objective is to lift the national income in the next two years from the present rate of $56,000,000,000 to $80,000,000,000 a year. But beyond that period his objective is $100,000,000,000 annual national income.

Must Increase Upturn
"I came to the conclusion," he continued, "that the present day problem calls for action both by the government and by the people, that we suffer from a failure of consumer demand because of a lack of buying power. It is up to us to create an economic upturn."

And then outlining the lending-spending program earlier presented to congress, Mr. Roosevelt said the gold nest egg would be utilized to pay the extra relief bill which he estimated would cost approximately $1,250,000,000 more than the $1,000,000,000 budget estimate of last January. His new estimates indicate that after congress has appropriated $1,250,000,000 for unemployment relief for the next fiscal year from July 1 to Feb. 1, 1939, it is likely another $750,000,000 will be sought of congress next Winter to carry the burden during the final five months.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT F. D. R.'S PLAN

But the spending will activate the whole credit structure.

Q. Then what is the total possible credit expansion involved in the President's program? A. Something over 30 billion dollars. Remember however, that this is only potential credit. Businessmen and industrialists must borrow and the banks must lend in order to make the credit of any value.

Q. What is the purpose of this new program? A. President Roosevelt wants to "prime the pump." He believes that by pouring a huge stream of federal cash into the hands of idle men and idle industry he will stimulate business so that it will pick up momentum and start moving up to prosperous levels.

Q. Where will the money come from to finance all this outlay of government spending and lending? A. The idle gold will provide $1,391,000,000 of what is needed. The remainder must be borrowed by issuing government bonds and securities.

Q. Will this send the deficit up? A. Yes. The budget in January expected the 1939 deficit to be about $950,000,000. The President indicated last night that this would be boosted about $1,250,000,000 to a total of $2,200,000,000.

Q. Is legislation needed by congress? A. Yes. Congress must appropriate all the money for new W. P. A. and other spending. Also a minor amendment to the U. S. Housing act and possibly to the W. P. A. act will be required.

Q. How soon will the new program go into effect? A. It has started already. The treasury released its segregated gold yesterday. Federal Reserve requirements will be relaxed in a day or two. W. P. A. has a backlog of some 3,000 projects on which action can be started almost immediately.

Q. Does the program affect the value of the dollar? A. No.

Q. Does it mean inflation? A. Fiscal experts consider the program inflationary.

Q. Will it be easier for business men to borrow money? A. That is expected. Banks will have much more idle funds seeking investment.

Q. Does it mean more W. P. A. jobs? A. Yes. Instead of cutting down W. P. A. rolls as is customary in the Summer they will be continued at the present level.

MYSTERY SHIPS WAR VESSELS, MANILA IS TOLD

MANILA, April 15—(UP)—The 21 mysterious vessels which anchored in Davao harbor, in the southern Philippines, are warships, the collector of customs at Davao declared today in a radio message to authorities here.

"It has been established beyond doubt that warships entered Davao waters," the collector of customs wired, based on a statement and declaration of the captain of the motorship Rizal and the master of the launch Daisy.

The report also included a statement made by Mayor C. D. MacGee, retired United States army officer, who made a sketch of the vessels, the wire said. Major MacGee's statement said:

"I saw around 17 warships in column formation. I could identify the wireless but could not identify the flags or numerals of any of the ships. The mothership moved up from the rear to the front of the column. She had a low flat deck with a slightly elevated poop as the only superstructure suggesting it might have been an airplane carrier, although my assistant said she could have been a collier."

ECONOMY PLANS JUNKED AS F. D. TELLS POLICIES

Potential Expansion Of
Credit Expected To

isolation would be necessary to effect the program except actual appropriation of the money involved and an authorization for the United States Housing authority to expand its slum clearance activities by the $300,000,000 proposed in the President's message.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his faith in the private profit system: "It is essential in our economy that private funds be put to work and all of us recognize that such funds are entitled to a fair profit."

One of the objectives of removing tax exemption from government and state bonds would be to close that hiding place to private capital. It is estimated that the government ultimately would obtain approximately $140,000,000 of revenue annually from that source although that gain would be offset largely by higher interest payments on outstanding securities.

Labor leaders were silent under the White House admonition to help work proceed "smoothly, continuously and fairly" although George M. Harrison, of the railway brotherhoods said he supposed Mr. Roosevelt was referring to "some of these strikes around the country."

Through the message and the chat ran a continuous plea for a united front—national cooperation—in the face of necessity.

To workers, especially, Mr. Roosevelt promised better times. He said he was prepared to aid business with federal funds and expected the benefits to be shared up and down.

To Aid All People

"The government contribution of money we now make to business," he continued, "come out of the labor of all the people. It is, therefore, only sound morality, as well as a sound distribution of buying power, that the benefits of prosperity coming from the use of this money of all the people should be distributed among all the people—at the bottom as well as at the top."

"It is a big program. Last Autumn in a sincere effort to bring government expenditures and government income into closer balance, the budget I worked out called for sharp decreases in government spending."

"In the light of present conditions those estimates were far too low. This new program adds $2,062,000,000 to direct treasury expenditures and another $950,000,000 to government loans—and the latter sum, because they are loans, will come back to the treasury in the future."

"The net effect on the debt of the government is this—between now and July 1, 1939—15 months away—the treasury will have to raise less than $1,500,000,000 of new money."

Buying Power Boosted
"Such addition to the net debt of the United States need not give concern to any citizen for it will return to the people of the United States many times over in increased buying power and eventually in much greater government tax receipts because of the increase in the citizens' income."

To Mr. Roosevelt's estimate of $2,062,000,000 of direct expenditure and $950,000,000 of treasury loans is added $1,500,000,000 of just-authorized R. F. C. loans which Mr. Roosevelt included in his recovery program as outlined in yesterday's message. That completes the aggregate of a $4,512,000,000 lending-spending campaign.

"Consequently I am again expressing my hope that the congress will enact at this session a wage and hours bill putting a floor under industrial wages and a limit on working hours—to insure a better distribution of our prosperity, a better distribution of available work, and a sounder distribution of buying power."

The President ended on a personal note. "I never forget," he said, "that I live in a house owned by all the American people and that I have been given their trust."

"I always try to remember that their deepest problems are human."

"I can hear your unspoken wonder as to where we are headed in this troubled world."

"I know that I must never give up, that I must never let the greater interest of all the people down."

"I believe we have been right in the course we have charted . . . your hopes and your help are with me . . . to reach port we must sail—sail, not lie at anchor—sail, not drift!"

Congressmen who opposed the administration on wage and hours legislation, and on government and judiciary reorganization are expected to make a strong stand for earmarking P. W. A. funds in the program to check any inclination the administration may have to punish political sinners by withholding federal funds from their districts.

Opposition Sensed
Sensing inevitable opposition, Mr. Roosevelt spoke over the heads of congress last night directly to the people.

"You may get all kinds of impressions," he said, "in regard to the total cost of this new program, or in regard to the amount that will be added to the national debt."

A total of $3,880,000,000 will be available for lending. It was estimated that each dollar injected into the credit structure will have a credit worth of $10, plus providing for a potential credit expansion in the new program of $39,000,000,000.

With a reassuring word that "this recession" has not returned the nation to the disasters of 1929, Mr. Roosevelt explained that banks now are safe, agriculture is not deeply distressed, market speculative dangers have been minimized, national income has almost doubled since 1932 and the government has accepted permanent responsibility for relief.

His immediate objective is to lift the national income in the next two years from the present rate of $56,000,000,000 to $80,000,000,000 a year. But beyond that period his objective is $100,000,000,000 annual national income.

Must Increase Upturn
"I came to the conclusion," he continued, "that the present day problem calls for action both by the government and by the people, that we suffer from a failure of consumer demand because of a lack of buying power. It is up to us to create an economic upturn."

And then outlining the lending-spending program earlier presented to congress, Mr. Roosevelt said the gold nest egg would be utilized to pay the extra relief bill which he estimated would cost approximately $1,250,000,000 more than the $1,000,000,000 budget estimate of last January. His new estimates indicate that after congress has appropriated $1,250,000,000 for unemployment relief for the next fiscal year from July 1 to Feb. 1, 1939, it is likely another $750,000,000 will be sought of congress next Winter to carry the burden during the final five months.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT F. D. R.'S PLAN

But the spending will activate the whole credit structure.

Q. Then what is the total possible credit expansion involved in the President's program? A. Something over 30 billion dollars. Remember however, that this is only potential credit. Businessmen and industrialists must borrow and the banks must lend in order to make the credit of any value.

Q. What is the purpose of this new program? A. President Roosevelt wants to "prime the pump."

He believes that by pouring a huge stream of federal cash into the hands of idle men and idle industry he will stimulate business so that it will pick up momentum and start moving up to prosperous levels.

Q. Where will the money come from to finance all this outlay of government spending and lending? A. The idle gold will provide $1,391,000,000 of what is needed. The remainder must be borrowed by issuing government bonds and securities.

Q. Will this send the deficit up? A. Yes. The budget in January expected the 1939 deficit to be about $950,000,000. The President indicated last night that this would be boosted about $1,250,000,000 or to a total of $2,200,000,000.

Q. Is legislation needed by congress? A. Yes. Congress must appropriate all the money for new W. P. A. and other spending. Also a minor amendment to the U. S. Housing act and possibly to the P. W. A. act will be required.

Q. How soon will the new program go into effect? A. It has started already. The treasury released its segregated gold yesterday. Federal Reserve requirements will be relaxed in a day or two. W. P. A. has a backlog of some 3,000 projects on which action can be started almost immediately.

Q. Does the program affect the value of the dollar? A. No.

Q. Does it mean inflation? A. Fiscal experts consider the program inflationary.

Q. Will it be easier for business men to borrow money? A. That is expected. Banks will have much more idle funds seeking investment.

Q. Does it mean more W. P. A. jobs? A. Yes. Instead of cutting down W. P. A. rolls as is customary in the Summer they will be continued at the present level.

OPEN LETTERS

TO CIRCLEVILLE RESIDENTS

FRIENDS: Attend your church on Easter. Elaborate preparations have been made in Circleville churches for colorful and fitting observance. All will have special musical programs and decorations and there is certain to be an array of color with the smart new clothes and flowers. Sunday evening, the union Easter service will be held in First Presbyterian church. More than 80 persons from the choirs of five churches will present the cantata "The Triumph of the Cross." This promises to be an outstanding program. I would suggest that you go early in order to obtain a seat.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNTY PARENTS

NEIGHBORS: If you have a son between the ages of 17 and 24 he is eligible to enlist in the Citizens Military training camp this Summer. The camps, for the Sixth army corps area, of which Ohio is a part, will be held this year at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis. These camps offer an opportunity for a vacation trip that any active boy would enjoy. Boys accepted, after passing a rigid physical examination, will be in camp for 30 days with all necessary expenses paid by the government. This will include transportation to and from the camp, food, clothing, shelter and medical attention. The government's purpose in providing these camps each year is to train young men in citizenship and elementary phases of army life. Among other things the boy will learn close order drill and how to handle and fire an army rifle. They also will participate in supervised athletics. These activities naturally appeal to boys. Enrollments are now being accepted by Dr. V. D. Kerns at his W. Main street office. When a boy is enlisted he is in no way obligated for army service in the future.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: Restoration of first grade charters to three Pickaway high schools, Washington, Saltcreek and Muhlenberg, is pleasing news to residents of those districts. First grade charters of the three schools were revoked last October due to small enrollment. Letters from the state director of education clearly point out that these schools should be united with other districts by the end of the school term of 1938-39. It has been recommended that Washington and Saltcreek schools unite with Pickaway and Muhlenberg be added to Monroe. Since officials know that some definite action must be taken in order that the schools be kept on the approved list, I suggest they start now to work out an amiable answer to their problems. Jealousies will have to be forgotten. Officials should consider only the matters that are for the benefit of children of the districts. When charters of schools are revoked the credentials of pupils usually will not be accepted by colleges and other high schools without examinations. Pickaway countians want every school to be a first grade school.

CIRCUITEER.

TO PICKAWAY COUNTIANS

FRIENDS: The success of the Northwest Territory celebration to be held on May 9 in Circleville depends largely on the support given by residents of Pickaway county and by organizations. From early reports there are many organizations able to sponsor floats that have failed to arrive at any definite decision on the question. Now is the time to get busy. There are scores of Pickaway countians who have antiques that should be placed on display in downtown stores. Hunt up these old articles and notify members of the committee about them. It would be a good plan for hardware stores to display old hardware, clothing stores articles of antique clothing, etc. Circleville has hopes of having an outstanding celebration, but there are numerous angles to be worked out and it is important that the committees be given full cooperation.

CIRCUITEER.

TO POLICE DEPARTMENT

PATROLMEN: Congratulations on the success of your campaign against traffic violators. Circleville motorists are becoming traffic-minded. This is the first campaign in many years that has been conducted with such outstanding results. I have one suggestion to offer. Very few of the children who purchased tags for their bicycles took time to read the rules that were given them. Practically every night there are bicycles on the streets without lights. Some refuse to obey traffic lights. In making your cruises check on some of these youngsters.

CIRCUITEER.

TO RESIDENTS

FOLK: Did you receive some Easter Seals and fail to send in the money for them. Money from the sale of those seals aids the crippled children of this community. You can enjoy no greater thought on Easter than to know you have aided in banishing or relieving the pain of some unfortunate youngster through a small contribution. Send in the money for your seals as soon as possible.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIRCLEVILLE CITIZENS

FRIENDS: Circleville will join the nation Sunday, May 1, in observing "Child Health Day." The day has been officially proclaimed by the President. Since preservation of youth is one of the things closest to the heart of everybody, it is fit and proper that such a day be set aside for some special thought and effort on the subject. Every Circleville parent, especially, should be looking forward to this worthy event. Public and private health agencies can do much in making this special day a success. Every man, woman and child should make a resolution now to make Circleville one of the most healthful cities in the land, with particular attention given to the health and safety of our children.

CIRCUITEER.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

It is a commonplace that a vice president of the United States stands no chance of graduating into the presidency except through the White House tenant's death. Once in first place, a promoted vice president may be presidentially nominated next time, such as was the case with Theodore Roosevelt or Calvin Coolidge. Otherwise the vice presidency traditionally rates as a dead end politically.

I would not be so sure, however, that Vice President John N. Garner might not be a pretty fair 1940 Democratic possibility, if he were a dozen or fifteen years younger. His age certainly forecloses him. He will be 74 two twelvemonths hence.

POLITICIANS DISCUSS HIM

All the same, one hears on Capitol Hill, again and again, the suggestion, "What a dandy candidate 'Texas Jack' would make, provided he weren't more than 55 or 60."

I do not suppose the rank-and-file of the electorate thinks much about him, for the very reason that he obviously is over elderly.

But politicians continually discuss his qualifications, those of his own party regretting bitterly that time can't be turned backward in its fight to make him eligible.

A BULL'S-EYE FOR JOHN

The other day, when Garner, on being offered $1,500 to lend his name to publication, answered, "John Garner isn't worth that much and the vice presidency isn't for sale," he scored a bull's-eye.

He may not have intended it so, but it was interpreted as a terrific dig at other folk in high places.

If experience counts for anything he has had plenty of it—a generation in the house of representatives, minority leader, speaker and president of the senate.

He is not a powerful orator, but he is so-so. Moreover, such oratorical ability as he has, he knows how to control.

He is no end likable. And he is moderately able—partisan but tolerable competent. And rational—businessmen trust him.

He is not a New Dealer. He has not taken any noticeably anti-New Deal attitude, but everyone knows that he is out of sympathy with New Deal policies in general.

CHAPTER 29

WHEN THE others left the swimming pool, Wenda turned to Garry. "Let's be comfortable." She curled up in an easy chair, and pulled her white velvet beach robe around her.

The room was quiet. The green water was as still as a sheet of green frozen ice, now that no one swam in it.

"Garry, you do love me, don't you?" she asked then, with a quick catch in her throaty voice—the catch that made a certain line of Garry's a time to weep in the theater for six nights every week.

"So much that I'd turn a somersault over the moon to prove it if you asked me to." He reached out a strong hand and caught the slender white fingers with their coral-tinted nails. He planted a kiss in the center of the palm and returned the hand to her.

"Mean it?" Wenda asked, and dimpled a little.

"Sure. I'll pull the moon down, if you want it."

She shook her head. "It might be made out of cheese wrapped in silver paper. No, leave the moon in the sky. It's something much more practical I want, Garry."

"And that is?" He was still leaning back leisurely in his chair.

When she spoke again, Wenda's voice was calm and matter-of-fact beneath the layer of softness. "A release from my part in the play, Garry."

Garry's whole body tensed. The easy good humor banished from his face as though one of the two white hands that lay so carelessly in Wenda's lap had wiped it away.

"A release, Wenda? But why?" His voice was quiet, though.

"Garry, we both want to go places. We are going places! We've got to use every chance that comes, don't we?"

He did not help her. He waited for her to continue.

"I can't have the lead in your play. You have Mabel Howard for it—she's a star of the first water and the part suits her. Even if it didn't concern her, it's not my kind of a part. I'm just—a lesser luminary. And I don't want to be, Garry! I want it to be my name in lights on the marquee."

Oh Garry, if you love me you'll want it to be, too! She could cloud her eyes with tears at will, and she remembered to do so now.

"Yes, I want you to succeed," Garry was answering. "Have you been offered a stellar role? Why didn't you say so? Good grief, Wenda, I'm not going to hold you back. You know that. I'll hate like the world to lose you from the cast—it won't be the same play—but we'll skip that. Wenda, I'm not tying a string to bind you."

"I know, Garry." She reached out both hands to him. "Love has to be free, doesn't it? That's the glory of it."

"Free—perfectly free," he answered. Odd—another girl had said something like that once upon a time when he had told her he was going away. Funny thing to remember right now. He turned back to Wenda.

"What play is it, Wenda?" He was searching his mind for one where the star might be vacating.

Wenda misunderstood the inquiry. "You think I'm not big enough for stardom?"

"No, Wenda. Just not quite ready for it. Most producers want names that have been in lights for a few years. You'll get there—it takes time."

"If you love me, you wouldn't be estimating my ability!"

The brown eyes flashed under the yellow bang and the red lips were sulky.

"Oh, Wenda, sweet, I'd string your name in electric lights across the town if I had my way. You'll be a star and you'll do it in a play of mine! You know that's what I want, don't you?"

"That's better." She flashed her widest smile at him.

"What play wants you?" Garry tried to be casual as he asked it.

"It hasn't opened yet—I mean, the play is being selected and rehearsals begin in two weeks."

"A play—for you?"

She nodded, waiting for his words.

"Who is producing it?" he asked, at last.

"Jimmy Minton."

The words hung in the air, as though there had been an airplane passing by that did them in sky-writing. Even the still green water seemed to tremble under the impact of the name.

"Jimmy Minton?" Garry's voice was a rising question.

"Yes, Garry. He thinks I have talent and he always has wanted to do a play."

"It's one of the few things he hasn't done," Garry said bitterly.

"Don't be jealous, honey. It's a chance for me."

"Yes! A grand chance to get yourself talked about all over town as one of Jimmy Minton's girls! He doesn't want to star you. He's in this thing to hurt me."

"Oh, Garry! But the dark eyes were laughing, pleased. "You mean he wants to arouse your jealousy?"

Garry was alert, taut now. "You don't understand this mixup, Wenda. I covered a story once when Minton was in a scrape and I had a pretty good insight into the man. I didn't handle him with kid gloves, either. I wouldn't feel right with myself if I hadn't. He's hated me ever since. Then last fall he pulled off a brawl down at Barbara Kingsley's apartment and I had occasion to sock his flabby jaw. He swore then he'd get even. Don't you see—he knows I love you and this is his way of hurting me!"

"Oh-h-h!" The sound was innocent enough as it came from Wenda's red lips. "Just because he'll think he's getting even with you about that Kingsley person" you want to spoil my chance? You would let her stand in my way. . . . Oh, Garry!"

Whatever else she was, Wenda Ayer was a good actress. She had the proper amount of hurt and reproach in her voice.

"Wenda, don't be a nitwit!" Garry was harsher than he meant to be but the situation had come upon him so suddenly. "Barbara hasn't anything to do with this!"

"Oh no?" Wenda slipped out of the velvet robe and stood up, her yellow hair flaming like a crown. "All right then, it's you! You don't want me to go ahead! You're afraid I'll pass you, aren't you?"

She wasn't acting now. She was being real. Garry sensed it, and he, too, discarded all pretense.

"But I'll go into that play. I'll show you, Garry! Page!" Her voice was not low and modulated any more. It raised itself to the status of a scream.

Garry did not raise his voice, but it was furious with rage. "Wenda, keep quiet! Go to the play, if you will! Go anywhere you want to go! If this is what you call love—" Then he stopped.

He had an odd sense that he was moving through a scene of unreality; that he was having a nightmare in which the lovely, glamorous Wenda Ayer, sweetness and light and love and their components, was walking out on his play.

The proud set of his head did not change. He squared his chin more stubbornly. He spoke quietly, though. "It's late for a play to go on. Had you thought of that?"

"Oh, Garry, you needn't think you can stop me! Nothing can stop me. I'm going to the top!"

Garry spoke wearily. "Maybe you are! He hated her and he adored her. She was a scheming woman, and yet she was a child having a tantrum. He wanted to seize her and hold her until she finished. He wanted to slap that curving white cheek—"

He caught his own breath. He never before had wanted to slap a woman. Oh, damn it, he loved her! And in her selfish ignorance she was walking into a gilded trap, whose door wouldn't spring any less painfully because the floor was cushioned. In desperation he spoke: "Wenda, darling, you don't know what you are doing! I won't let you!"

Her laughter was taunting. "Won't let me, Garry? Try to stop me! I'm calling the director now! I've made my last appearance in your play. I'm resigning. You can listen while I call."

Two people's voices were talking on the telephone, when she picked up the receiver in the living room, beyond the pool, while Garry stood waiting. She heard a woman saying: "Barbara, I'm going to get to Jimmy Minton tonight. He's at the Lodge and I'm going to be there, too!"

Sherlock Holmes' Test Helps Out in Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY FRIEND, the diagnostician in the large clinic, told me another story which illustrates how valuable it is to use common sense instead of too many scientific instruments in trying to find out what is the matter with people. I told one of the stories yesterday. Here is another one.

People come to the clinic from all over the country. They have usually been examined by half a dozen good doctors beforehand. This patient was a retail merchant of about 50 years of age who, according to the stories of his friends and family, had gradually begun to lose interest in things. He became abstracted and his friends found him unresponsive; sometimes he did not recognize them on the street. He lost weight and walked with a peculiar gait. He had to turn over the conduct of his business to other members of his family and finally the diagnosis of melancholia was made.

He went through a great many tests in the clinic and nobody seemed able to arrive at any different diagnosis from his home physicians. Finally he was brought to the diagnostician's office, who decided he would dispense with the scientific tests and see if he could not figure out what was the matter with the man by observation.

Patient Wore Galoshes

The physical examination revealed nothing but an apathetic man, unnaturally thin and weak for his age. Finally, in looking him over, the diagnostician noticed that he was wearing galoshes. He said to him, "What in the world are you doing with galoshes on in May?"

The man replied, "I am cold all the time. I can't seem to get enough clothes on me."

The diagnosis was myxedema—in other words, an atrophy of the thyroid gland with a lowered thyroid secretion. (In this particular case the test for thyroid function by the measurement of oxygen use had not been conclusive. In this case also, the characteristic changes that occur in the face were absent, which also misled the other doctors.)

This diagnosis is as often misled as any other in medicine because the symptoms are so indefinite. Often they point simply to a general nervous or mental state and the thyroid is forgotten by the diagnostician. The right diagnosis brings brilliant results, because in many cases the patients can be restored to practically normal health by the use of thyroid extract.

He went through a great many tests in the clinic and nobody seemed able to arrive at any different diagnosis from his home physicians. Finally he was brought to

OPEN LETTERS

TO CIRCLEVILLE RESIDENTS

FRIENDS: Attend your church on Easter. Elaborate preparations have been made in Circleville churches for colorful and fitting observance. All will have special musical programs and decorations and there is certain to be an array of color with the smart new clothes and flowers. Sunday evening, the union Easter service will be held in First Presbyterian church. More than 80 persons from the choirs of five churches will present the cantata "The Triumph of the Cross." This promises to be an outstanding program. I would suggest that you go early in order to obtain a seat.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNTY PARENTS

NEIGHBORS: If you have a son between the ages of 17 and 24 he is eligible to enlist in the Citizens Military training camp this Summer. The camps, for the Sixth army corps area, of which Ohio is a part, will be held this year at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis. These camps offer an opportunity for a vacation trip that any active boy would enjoy. Boys accepted, after passing a rigid physical examination, will be in camp for 30 days with all necessary expenses paid by the government. This will include transportation to and from the camp, food, clothing, shelter and medical attention. The government's purpose in providing these camps each year is to train young men in citizenship and elementary phases of army life. Among other things the boy will learn close order drill and how to handle and fire an army rifle. They also will participate in supervised athletics. These activities naturally appeal to boys. Enrollments are now being accepted by Dr. V. D. Kerns at his W. Main street office. When a boy is enlisted he is in no way obligated for army service in the future.

TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: Restoration of first grade charters to three Pickaway high schools, Washington, Saltcreek and Muhlenberg, is pleasing news to residents of those districts. First grade charters of the three schools were revoked last October due to small enrollment. Letters from the state director of education clearly point out that these schools should be united with other districts by the end of the school term of 1938-39. It has been recommended that Washington and Saltcreek schools unite with Pickaway and Muhlenberg be added to Monroe. Since officials know that some definite action must be taken in order that the schools

It is a commonplace that a vice president of the United States stands no chance of graduating into the presidency except through the White House tenant's death. Once in first place, a promoted vice president may be presidentially nominated next time, such as was the case with Theodore Roosevelt or Calvin Coolidge. Otherwise the vice presidency traditionally rates as a dead end politically.

I would not be so sure, however, that Vice President John N. Garner might not be a pretty fair 1940 Democratic possibility, if he were a dozen or fifteen years younger. His age certainly forecloses him. He will be 74 two twelvemonths hence.

POLITICIANS DISCUSS HIM

All the same, one hears on Capitol Hill, again and again, the suggestion, "What a dandy candidate 'Texas Jack' would make, provided he weren't more than 55 or 60."

be kept on the approved list, I suggest they start now to work out an amiable answer to their problems. Jealousies will have to be forgotten. Officials should consider only the matters that are for the benefit of children of the districts. When charters of schools are revoked the credentials of pupils usually will not be accepted by colleges and other high schools without examinations. Pickaway countians want every school to be a first grade school.

CIRCUITEER.

TO PICKAWAY COUNTIANS

FRIENDS: The success of the Northwest Territory celebration to be held on May 9 in Circleville depends largely on the support given by residents of Pickaway county and by organizations. From early reports there are many organizations able to sponsor floats that have failed to arrive at any definite decision on the question. Now is the time to get busy. There are scores of Pickaway countians who have antiques that should be placed on display in downtown stores. Hunt up these old articles and notify members of the committee about them. It would be a good plan for hardware stores to display old hardware, clothing stores articles of antique clothing, etc. Circleville has hopes of having an outstanding celebration, but there are numerous angles to be worked out and it is important that the committees be given full cooperation.

CIRCUITEER.

TO POLICE DEPARTMENT

PATROLMEN: Congratulations on the success of your campaign against traffic violators. Circleville motorists are becoming traffic-minded. This is the first campaign in many years that has been conducted with such outstanding results. I have one suggestion to offer. Very few of the children who purchased tags for their bicycles took time to read the rules that were given them. Practically every night there are bicycles on the streets without lights. Some refuse to obey traffic lights. In making your cruises check on some of these youngsters.

CIRCUITEER.

TO RESIDENTS

FOLK: Did you receive some Easter Seals and fail to send in the money for them. Money from the sale of those seals aids the crippled children of this community. You can enjoy no greater thought on Easter than to know you have aided in banishing or relieving the pain of some unfortunate youngster through a small contribution. Send in the money for your seals as soon as possible.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CIRCLEVILLE CITIZENS

FRIENDS: Circleville will join the nation Sunday, May 1, in observing "Child Health Day." The day has been officially proclaimed by the President. Since preservation of youth is one of the things closest to the heart of everybody, it is fit and proper that such a day be set aside for some special thought and effort on the subject. Every Circleville parent, especially, should be looking forward to this worthy event. Public and private health agencies can do much in making this special day a success. Every man, woman and child should make a resolution now to make Circleville one of the most healthful cities in the land, with particular attention given to the health and safety of our children.

CHAPTER 29

WHEN THE others left the swimming pool, Wenda turned to Garry. "Let's be comfortable." She curled up in an easy chair, and pulled her white velvet beach robe around her.

The room was quiet. The green water was as still as a sheet of green frozen ice, now that no one swam in it.

"Garry, you do love me, don't you?" she asked then, with a quick catch in her throaty voice—the catch that made a certain line of Garry's a time to weep in the theater for six nights every week.

"So much that I'd leave the moon and the stars to prove it to you," she said. "I'd leave the moon and the stars to prove it to you."

"You think I'm not big enough for stardom?"

"No, Wenda. Just not quite ready for it. Most producers want names that have been in lights for a few years. You'll get there—it takes time."

"If you love me, you wouldn't be estimating my ability!"

The brown eyes flashed under the yellow bang and the red lips were sulky.

"Oh, Wenda, sweet, I'd string your name in electric lights across the town if I had my way. You'll be a star and you'll do it in a play of mine! You know that's what I want, don't you?"

"That's better." She flashed her widest smile at him.

"What play wants you?" Garry tried to be casual as he asked it.

"It hasn't opened yet—I mean, the play is being selected and rehearsals begin in two weeks."

"A play—for you?"

She nodded, waiting for his words.

"Who is producing it?" he asked, at last.

"Jimmy Minton."

The words hung in the air, as though there had been an airplane passing by that did them in sky-writing. Even the still green water seemed to tremble under the impact of the name.

"Jimmy Minton?" Garry's voice was a rising question.

"Yes, Garry. He thinks I have talent and he always has wanted to do a play."

"It's one of the few things he hasn't done," Garry said bitterly.

"Don't be jealous, honey. It's a chance for me—"

"Yes! A grand chance to get yourself talked about all over town as one of Jimmy Minton's girls! He doesn't want to star you. He's in this thing to hurt me."

"Oh, Garry!" But the dark eyes were laughing, pleased. "You mean he wants to arouse your jealousy?"

Garry was alert, taut now. "You don't understand this mixup, Wenda. I covered a story once when Minton was in a scrape and I had a pretty good insight into the man. I didn't handle him with kid gloves, either. I wouldn't feel right with myself if I hadn't. He's hated me ever since. Then last fall he pulled off a brawl down at Barbara Kingsley's apartment and I had occasion to sock his flabby jaw. He swore then he'd get even. Don't you see—he knows I love you and this is his way of hurting me!"

"Oh-h-h!" The sound was innocent enough as it came from Wenda's red lips. "Just because he'll think he's getting even with you about that Kingsley person

April and May. These are the Marsh Marigolds. They may be potted up and set into the pool on a tile or bricks to bring them up to the desired height.

Since the Marsh Marigolds are hardy perennials, they can be planted in the garden after they finish blooming. Put them in a moist spot in partial shade.

When the frost is completely out of the trees, feeding can begin. Authorities recommend punching holes a foot into the ground about two feet apart into each of which food is dropped. The holes are then sealed with earth. Since most of the feeding roots are located under the circle of the branch tips, a good number of the holes should be made there, and a few closer in.

MANY EVENTS PLANNED

Chariot Race To Attract Much Attention

Circleville and Pickaway district Boy Scouts will compete next Wednesday, April 20, at 7 p. m. at the Circleville High School athletic field to determine district championships in several activities for the annual Central Ohio Scoutorama to be held at the Coliseum in Columbus, Saturday, April 30.

Robert Terhune, district commissioner, will be in charge of the championship contests here next week. A chariot race between Scouts of Troop 15, American Legion, and Troop 5, Kingston Presbyterian Church, will be the first event. Other contests will be fire-by-friction and fire with flint and steel, semaphore and Morse code signaling, wall-scaling, a knot tying relay, and an equipment race.

Winners in each competition will represent the Pickaway district in the competitive events at the Scoutorama and will compete with champions from each of the other eleven districts in the Central Ohio Area Council for the council championships.

Thousands of people are attracted every year to the huge show in which more than 4,000 scouts of Central Ohio participate. Local scouts are selling tickets for the Scoutorama in order to provide funds for their own troops.

Library Notes

All roads seem to lead to Williamsburg to all Eastward motorists. Whether Florida or Washington, D. C., or elsewhere, is the ultimate destination, many Pickaway County people have had, or plan, a visit to "Old Williamsburg," the restored city of Virginia which takes you directly back to Colonial days and ways.

The Circleville library has just received "Old Williamsburg and Her Neighbors," by William Oliver Stevens. For the traveler who expects to go there, or one who has already been there, this volume will be a source of information and pleasure.

Fairy tales are not usually included in lists of books for adult readers, however, there is a new one, just published, that the boys and girls are going to have a hard time keeping away from the grown-ups. So if you like "Alice in Wonderland," or "Peter Pan," or any of a dozen or more of such old favorites, get your name down for "The Hobbits," by J. R. R. Tolkien.

If you are not interested in it yourself, just recommend it to some imaginative boy or girl of eight to eleven.

When Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy travels by railway, his train usually consists of eight heavily armored cars.

TEMPTING MENUS

MAXINE ROBERTSON

Quick Broiled Dinners for Busy Days

Little suppers that are especially tempting and healthy, though simple in combination and preparation, are most welcome to busy housewives.

If lagging appetites need a bit of pepping up, you will wax enthusiastic when you realize the easiest and quickest way of cooking—broiling—has such appetite appeal.

The first menu is nice for a family card table dinner. You can place the table in any room that is not undergoing the house cleaning process. To save yourself time and extra work use paper tablecloths and napkins.

- Broiled Frankfurters with Scrambled Eggs
- Potato Sticks
- Butter
- Apple Colelaw
- Toasted Muffins
- Hot Chocolate

Broiled Frankfurters with Scrambled Eggs

Split frankfurters lengthwise but not quite through, so the two halves will still be attached at the center. Spread them out on the broiler with the cut surface up. Brush with melted butter and broil six minutes, or until lightly browned and slightly curled. It is not necessary to turn them. Serve scrambled eggs in the center of each frankfurter. Crisp French-fried potatoes or potato chips are just the thing to serve with this dish. For a variation in this menu we suggest you try frankfurter kabobs on grilled tomatoes.

Frankfurter Kabobs

Cut frankfurters in one-inch slices, and bake in matching pieces. Put alternate pieces of frankfurter and bacon on a skewer and broil until brown. Serve on slices of grilled tomatoes.

Toasted Muffins

To serve tempting left-over muffins, split the muffin through the center. Arrange on your broiler and toast until a golden brown. Any variety of spread may be used as a topping; or they may be sprinkled with confectioner's sugar just before toasting. You might like to spread them lightly with marmalade or cream cheese flavored with orange rind—both good muffin tempters.

Broiling is an excellent way to re-heat left-overs. You can do wonders with cold roast beef, potatoes, broccoli (or any other cooked vegetable). Add a salad and dessert and you have a completely new and different dinner. Here is the formula:

Spread slices of cold beef with a mixture of mustard and Worcestershire sauce and slip under the broiler. Slice boiled, baked, or Franconia roasted potatoes on the broiler pan with stalks of broccoli, and brush all with melted butter. Broil about three-inches below the flame until the potatoes and beef are browned. When you turn them, it may be necessary to brush the potatoes and broccoli again with melted butter. Now sprinkle broccoli with a little grated cheese, parmesan preferred, although American cheese will do. Continue broiling.

We would suggest a crisp vegetable salad and molded dessert to complete our left-over broiled menu.

F. D.'S PROGRAM WINS PLAUDITS, CONDEMNATION

Administration Chiefs Say Early Favorable Ballot Can Be Expected

BYRD, OTHERS OPPOSED

O'Connor Scores Priming Of Dry Well

WASHINGTON, April 15—(UP)—Administration leaders in congress today predicted early enactment of President Roosevelt's spending-lending recovery program to combat depression.

Congressional appraisal of the President's proposals varied from praise to condemnation.

Members of the coalition of Democrats and Republicans who scuttled the government reorganization bill claimed that there was no use in trying to "prime a dry pump." They warned that "further unbridled federal spending" would lead to an uncontrollable public debt.

The President's critics included such congressmen as Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D. Va., Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich., House Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell, R. N. Y., Chairman John O'Connor, D. N. Y., of the house rules committee, and Rep. John Taber, R. N. Y.

Assurance Lack Cited

They assailed the new program for lack of adequate reassurances to lagging business, and demanded outright repeal of the undistributed profits tax now in conference and a "hands off" policy toward private industry.

Such administration stalwarts as Speaker William B. Bankhead, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, D. Tex., and House Democratic Whip Patrick J. Bo-lan, D. Pa., offset these attacks with praise.

The leadership, backed heavily on the forthcoming congressional elections to get early passage of the necessary legislation.

"I think that is a very reasonable and constructive program," Barkley said. "A big part of it is to retain the program that is now in effect. The only thing really new is the $1,500,000,000 public works program. It should not interfere with May 14 adjournment."

O'Connor said, however, that

"priming the pump" will not do any good "if there is no water in the well." He demanded assurances against further "snooping" by the New Deal in private business, and no "further encroachment by the executive on congress."

Rayburn countered that the program "will greatly facilitate recovery by creating work, enhancing opportunities for business and creating confidence." Rep. Wright Patman, D. Tex., leader of a currency expansion bloc, endorsed his views and lauded the proposal to sterilize gold to defray part of the program's cost.

"There is not one word in the message which will relieve business of the fear of oppression and White House hostility from which it is now suffering an economic paralysis," Rep. J. William Ditter, R., Pa., said.

Snell for Economy

Snell said that the program takes the lid off federal spending when the President should be encouraging the public by economy, and warned that the nation's resources are "nearly running dry."

Sen. David I. Walsh, D. Mass., applauded Mr. Roosevelt's appeal for "national unity" and said that additional relief appropriations are inescapable.

Sen. Royal S. Copeland, D. N. Y., demanded "proof of the need" for such spending, while Sen. Richard B. Russell, D. Ga., said that he would "have to vote" for the program because there was "no alternative way out."

Sen. James F. Byrnes, D. S. C., argued that the program will revive business. Sen. Byrd said he was "unalterably opposed to further 'pump priming.'" He demanded repeal of the undistributed profits tax as a starter toward recovery.

"I must reject his renewal of a profligate spending program with its deficits and debt because that is the route, in part, which has brought us unhappily where we are," said Sen. Vandenberg, a possible Republican presidential nominee in 1940.

Crosses are still very popular jewelry. They can be had in silver, gold or black, set with stones or plain—both large and small.

And we will be just as pleased to have him with us as he is to join. Said he had read our band organization announcement in The Herald. Fred told us this morning an arrangement will be worked out to take care of the youngsters who have a band instrument and desire to learn to play. But the first band must be "seasonal" musicians.

Mowers in Operation

True or Not, it requires seven lawn mowers working regularly every day to keep the grass at proper length over on the West side at the home of Lewis Foreman. We know this is true because we saw them in operation. And the power supplied to these "new fangled" mowers is generated from the mown grass. And again this is something different and is news. Costs nothing to see for yourself these mowers in operation.

The Ashville-Harrison joint school board will be in session next Monday evening when some teacher employment may be considered. The members of this joint-board are Benford Millar and Jesse Baum for Harrison township and Dr. C. J. Rokey and Grover C. Cline for Ashville special district. LONDOS UNABLE TO GAIN BOUT WITH CHAMPION

NEW YORK, April 15—(UP)—The Good, old run-around-the boys are giving Jim Londos would be more tragic if the gorgeous Greek had never been accused of similar tactics when he was king-pin of heavyweight wrestling.

Even so, the present tactics of the promoters in denying James shots at Bronko Nagurski and Steve Casey are working further harm on a definitely ailing sport.

Three months after a triumphal tour of South Africa and parts of Europe, including his native Greece, Londos finds himself as far removed from a title shot as he was the day he stepped ashore.

Jim, of course, in the customary manner of wrestlers, still regards himself as champion—"international champion," whatever that means—but he would give several acres off his San Diego ranch to be matched with Casey or Nagurski. Casey might be preferred because the Irisher probably would be easier to dump, but Nagurski ought to be the first objective for Londos since he is generally regarded as champion.

Many Details Help Better Golf Game

By WILLIAM BOWMAN
Golf Professional

In my article last week I spoke quite freely on some of the breaches of golf etiquette. Now there are a few other fundamentals that ought to be covered before we start on the instructive articles. I speak mainly on the care of the golf course.

Most golfers know what a divot is. They have been taught to replace divots. By replacing divots, you not only do a good turn for the course, but you also do a good turn for the players to follow. Tuff removed by a shot will soon heal, that is true, but it leaves a depression in the turf, and should someone's ball rest in one of these, it is necessary to make a larger divot in shooting out. Caddies are instructed in this part of their work, but it is the duty of the golfer to stand in place and see that such divot is placed and firmly tramped on.

Numerous Player Changes Recorded During Year On All Squads

THREE MANAGERS NAMED

Blues And Toledo Looming As Possibilities

BY UNITED PRESS

The American Association baseball season will start tomorrow in the four eastern cities of the league. The turnover in players on every team during the winter was so complete that there is little basis for comparison with last season, and sports followers have been unable to select a pronounced pennant favorite.

In the opening games, Kansas City plays at Columbus, Milwaukee at Toledo, Minneapolis at Indianapolis, and St. Paul at Louisville. Four teams, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Toledo, and Minneapolis appear stronger on paper than the remaining circuit members.

Outside of a few recruit pitchers who showed enough ability to be held over from last season, there are only 21 regular players in the league who will start the season with the same team that carried them a year ago. Kansas City has one; St. Paul two; Milwaukee, Columbus, Minneapolis, three each; Louisville, four; and Indianapolis, five.

Three New Managers

This turnover, the most thorough in the league's history, also brought three new managers. Bill Meyer is the new pilot of Kansas City, Babe Ganzel at St. Paul, and Ray Schalk at Indianapolis. The managers who were retained are Owen Bush, Minneapolis; Allen Sorthorn, Milwaukee; Fred Haney, Toledo; Bert Shotton, Columbus, and Bert Niehoff, Louisville.

Kansas City's new parent club, the New York Yankees, have been generous in supplying young players. The team apparently needs few additions and is better prepared to start the season than any other.

Milwaukee has received help from Cleveland of the American league and, although weak in spots, is a first division prospect.

Toledo has an entirely new infield which has shown flashes of power of last year, but the Detroit team is minus some of the batting brilliance in Spring play. The Tigers are expected to plug any weaknesses that appear.

Minneapolis has a cagy board of strategy.

Owners of the St. Paul club are rebuilding. Several top rookies were taken in from the Texas league and many look for the Saints to be a surprise team.

Fans in Columbus haven't become acquainted with the team because the owners, the St. Louis Cardinals, have been changing players back and fourth. Little remains of last year's pennant-winning squad. But the Cardinals always before have supplied help when needed.

Indianapolis was bothered with holdouts. The team lagged in Spring training and at present needs bolstering in several spots.

Louisville, without a major league connection, is not expected to rise far above last year's squad which finished in the cellar.

Since Lou Gehrig has been with the Yankees—15 years—he has hit 465 homers.

The thousands of baseball followers who will flock to Red Bird stadium in Columbus for the opening of the 1938 baseball campaign Saturday will be augmented this year by many strictly gridiron fans who will be on hand for the sole purpose of paying tribute to one of the greatest football figures in America, Slingin' Sammy Baugh. Baugh will begin his baseball career at shortstop for the Champion Red Birds when they meet Kansas City in the American Association inaugural.

Menow Carries Hopes Of Kentucky In May 7 Race

NEW YORK, April 15—(UP)—Headed by Menow, champion 2-year-old of 1937, four candidates from the stable of Hal Price Headley give that Kentucky sportsman a whip hand in the Kentucky Derby next month.

Cheered by the amazing recovery of Menow's leg injury, Duval Headley, nephew-trainer, arrived in Kentucky from Florida a few days ago and immediately started preparing his charges for the May 7 stakes. They are quartered at Keeneland Park.

While Menow is listed at 10-1 in the winter books, it is expected his price will drop several points if future preparatory trials prove satisfactory. In fact it would not be surprising to see the colt a joint-favorite with Earl Sande's Stagehand on Derby day.

Menow is a gangling colt by Pharamond II, out of Alcibades. He won three of his six starts, including the Champagne Stakes and Futurity at Belmont. He finished second to Tiger in the Futurity at Washington Park, Ill., and was once unplaced. He led the list of money-winners, with earnings of $65,825.

Set World Record

In his Futurity victory at the Westchester Racing Association course, Menow set a world record of 1:15.1-5 over the 6 1/2 furlongs straightaway course. After the race, Charley Kutsinger, who rode War Admiral in that colt's meteoric rise to turf fame, told the writer that Menow was the best horse he ever threw a leg over.

The young Kentucky booter reiterated that statement in Florida after Trainer Headley announced the colt was only a 50-50 chance to start in the Blue Grass event. Subsequent workouts made Headley change his opinion and he now feels his champion has an excellent chance of becoming the first Futurity winner ever to go on and win America's premier 3-year-old classic.

Menow suffered a deep scratch on his leg shortly before the Pimlico Futurity last fall and the younger Headley promptly took him out of the race. He was retired for the winter at Charleston, S. C., and while there he was voted the outstanding 2-year-old of the year by U. S. turf writers. He was shipped to Hialeah Park, Fla., the latter part of January where he remained until a week ago.

While in Florida Menow was not campaigned but gradually brought around to the point where he worked a mile in 1:41 the day before leaving for Kentucky.

Bourbon King Best Mate

Dah He, Bourbon King and Copy Cat make up the Headley quartet that are eligible to next month's $50,000 prize. Of the three Bourbon King appears best off last year's form. A bay son of Which-on-Ancient Queen, the colt was good enough to win the Remsen Handicap at Jamaica and finished third in the Washington Park Futurity and Walden Handicap at Pimlico. But he finished out of the money in the Louisiana Derby last February and hardly shapes up as Kentucky Derby quality.

Dah He, another son of Pharamond II, was lightly campaigned

Gill And Coffman Raked For 22 Safe Blows In Exhibition

SPRINGFIELD, April 15—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds lack the consistent batting punch that is required of a pennant contender, but Manager Bill McKechnie's crew had proved today it would give National league pitchers some unpleasant afternoons during the coming championship campaign.

The Redlegs gave their greatest offensive display of the training season yesterday at Portsmouth, O., as they downed the Detroit Tigers 14 to 11. The clubs meet here again today.

Cincinnati hammered two young Tiger hurlers, George Gill and George Coffman, for 22 hits. Included in the barrage were six home runs and three doubles. All told the Reds' safeties were good for a total of 43 bases.

Cincinnati was off to a commanding lead in the early innings and had things entirely its own way until Detroit rallied to push across eight runs in the last two rounds.

The Reds scored three times in the first, once each in the second and fourth, eight times in the fifth and then garnered the final counter in seventh.

Gene Schott started on the mound for Cincinnati and gave up six runs and 10 hits in eight innings. The young right-hander wasn't in top form, but his performance indicated that he was on the way toward regaining the cunning that made his work outstanding during the early weeks of the Spring. Lloyd Moore pitched the final inning and was pounded hard.

Every player in the Cincinnati lineup except First Baseman Frank McCormick and Baxter Jordan secured at least one hit. Lew Riggs and Dusty Cooke led the attack with four safeties each.

FELLER PROVES HE'S READY FOR 1938 CAMPAIGN

WEIRTON, W. Va., April 15—(UP)—American league clubs are going to see a new and different Bob Feller when the championship campaign is opened next Tuesday.

In place of a wild rookie depending entirely on a blazing fast ball, rivals of the Cleveland Indians will find that Feller is a smarter more polished workman. The Iowa farmboy proved that yesterday at Charleston when he worked a three inning stretch against the New York Giants. New York won the contest 5 to 2, but not at the expense of Feller.

During the three rounds Feller worked the National league champs were able to get only one runner on first base. That occurred when Lou Chiozza beat out a bunt in the third for the only hit off Bob.

The youngster had perfect control and did not pass a batsman. When he left the box the Indians held a 1 to 0 lead. However, Johnny Humphries who followed him to the hill could not protect the margin. Humphries was pounded for six hits and four runs during his stay. The Giants final run came off Bill Zuber.

Cleveland outhit the Giants 8 to 7, but could not bunch the safeties effectively.

The Tribe made one run in the second off the great Carl Hubbell and another in the seventh off the delivery of Bill Lohrman.

Ken Keltner, rookie third baseman, snapped out of a batting slump to pace the Cleveland attack. He made three hits in four trips to the plate.

STATUS OF JOE DiMAGGIO GETS CONSIDERATION

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, April, 15—(UP)——Sooner or later, every baseball fan in this country must form an opinion concerning the impasse between Joe DiMaggio and Co. Jacob Ruppert, the club's multi-millionaire owner.

The opinion of the baseball fan is important, very important, because in the long run he will prove the right and wrong of the argument. If the fans stay away from Yankee games in large numbers there will be but one answer—Ruppert made a mistake in not meeting Joe's demand for $40,000 this season. If the Yanks have a better attendance than last year—well, it would prove simply that Ruppert had the true estimate of the worth of Joe's customer appeal.

And, in baseball, nothing matters but customer appeal.

That's the lead of today's story. Now, we'll get down to the nub. Speaking as a fan—not as a sportswriter—I want to know just what will happen to Joe DiMaggio if he doesn't capitulate to Col. Ruppert. He has no contract with the Yankees. Is it possible for him to sign up with another club? Or has baseball a certain arrangement whereby a workman, meaning a player, is nothing more than a chattel when he casts his lot with a certain club?

What I'm trying to get at is this:—If Joe DiMaggio says 'no' to Col. Ruppert, is he barred from organized baseball until he bows to the Colonel's will? I have been closely allied to baseball for 10 years, and I have yet to fathom the intricacies of a baseball contract.

Earl Sande, veteran jockey who trained Stagehand, winner of the rich Santa Anita handicap, participated in 3,663 races from 1918 to 1932, coming in first 967 times. He won more money than any other jockey.

Principals for Season's Opening Game

The thousands of baseball followers who will flock to Red Bird stadium in Columbus for the opening of the 1938 baseball campaign Saturday will be augmented this year by many strictly gridiron fans who will be on hand for the sole purpose of paying tribute to one of the greatest football figures in America, Sluggin' Sammy Baugh. Baugh will begin his baseball career at shortstop for the Champion Red Birds when they meet Kansas City in the American Association inaugural.

Baugh's sensational college career at Texas Christian university won him All-American football honors two years ago, and last Fall he proved that his selection was no mistake by gaining additional honors as a member of the Washington Redskins, professional football champions. This Spring his ability as an infielder in the St. Louis camp won him still further recognition as an athlete, and his subsequent assignment to the Red Birds proved most popular with Ohio sports fans.

Baugh will headline a splendid cast of performers, including Earl Grace, Lynn King, former big league players, and such stand-bys as Johnny Chambers, Ott Stein and Pat Ankenman. Colorful new Red Birds are Jim Griik, big first sacker, Herschel Lyons, pitcher and Phil Clark, speedy outfielder.

A capacity crowd is indicated from the advance ticket sale in Columbus, with many out-of-town delegations planning to attend the season's inaugural.

STATUS OF JOE DiMAGGIO GETS CONSIDERATION

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, April, 15—(UP)

—Sooner or later, every baseball fan in this country must form an opinion concerning the impasse between Joe DiMaggio and Co. Jacob Ruppert, the club's multimillionaire owner.

The opinion of the baseball fan is important, very important, because in the long run he will prove the right and wrong of the argument. If the fans stay away from Yankee games in large numbers there will be but one answer — Ruppert made a mistake in not meeting Joe's demand for $40,000 this season. If the Yanks have a better attendance than last year — well, it would prove simply that Ruppert had the true estimate of the worth of Joe's customer appeal.

And, in baseball, nothing matters but customer appeal.

That's the lead of today's story. Now, we'll get down to the nub. Speaking as a fan—not as a sportswriter—I want to know just what will happen to Joe DiMaggio if he doesn't capitulate to Col. Ruppert. He has no contract with the Yankees. Is it possible for him to sign up with another club? Or has baseball a certain arrangement whereby a workman, meaning a player, is nothing more than a chattel when he casts his lot with a certain club?

What I'm trying to get at is this—if Joe DiMaggio says "no" to Col. Ruppert, is he barred from organized baseball until he bows to the Colonel's will? I have been closely allied to baseball for 10 years, and I have yet to fathom the intricacies of a baseball contract.

Earl Sande, veteran jockey who trained Stagehand, winner of the rich Santa Anita handicaps, participated in 3,663 races from 1918 to 1932, coming in first 967 times. He won more money than any other jockey.

The Victorious Servant

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The International Uniform Lesson for Easter Sunday is Acts 2:22-36, the Golden Text being Acts 2:32, "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses.")

THE ABIDING proof of Christ's resurrection from the dead is his church confronting the world with its testimony. "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses." Something had happened that changed Christ's disciples from cringing cowards to courageous crusaders. What made so great a change in these men in so short a space as three days? There is a resurrection within them that requires another resurrection to explain. Their faith and hope had expired at the cross with their master. But now, as Peter explains the change, they are "begotten again unto a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

The Cross Cheated

There was no question about Christ's death. The whole city had witnessed that. "Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God unto you by mighty works," even as ye yourselves know; him, being delivered up by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye by the hand of lawless men did crucify and slay; whom God raised up, having loosed the pangs of death; because it was not possible that he should be holden of it." The question was how the apparent victim of the cross had become the victor over the cross and the grave and death of which these were but the symbols. As Peter sees it now, it could not be otherwise. It was the only logical outcome that could have been expected by anyone who knew who Jesus really was.

A thousand years before the cross, David had foretold the Lord's saying, "Thou wilt not leave my soul unto Hades, neither wilt thou give thy Holy One to corruption."

PREVIEW NEAR FOR NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

Event April 30 To Show Progress In Building And Planning

COMPLETION IS HALFWAY

International Air Hookup To Describe Event

NEW YORK, April 15 (UP)—An official preview of the 1939 New York World's Fair will be staged April 30, to show the progress made to date. The exposition is virtually halfway toward completion now.

The principal feature of the preview will be a gigantic "motorcade" of hundreds of colorful floats through New York City to the Fair grounds, where the parade will be reviewed by foreign diplomats and fair officials. Divisions from the army, navy, civic, religious and school organizations will participate and hear speeches by Grover Whalen, president of the Fair Corporation, and other officials and celebrities.

The April 30 celebration is being held just a year before the exposition gates will be thrown open to the general public in 1939. Visitors will be able to inspect more than 100 buildings in the process of construction. The $60,000,000 Central Mall has begun to take shape. Miles of roads are being made.

Perisphere Rears Skyward

Thousands of trees have been planted. The Lagoon of Nations has been started, and the incomplete Trylon structure, with its 700-foot arrow-shaped tower and the Perisphere, a steel cylinder 22 stories tall, will be far enough advanced to give on-lookers a foretaste of the "World of Tomorrow" which the public will see in 1939.

"The visitors will see the Fair nearly half built and well along toward opening on time on April 30, 1939," Whalen announced. Meanwhile, foreign countries, institutions and private corporations are pushing plans for the completion of costly exhibits in time for the official inauguration of the exposition. Exhibits so far announced cover almost every conceivable form of human endeavor from a Railroad Building, nearly a quarter of a mile long, to the 500 square feet of space contracted by the American Society for the Control of Cancer to depict in dioramas scientific progress toward eradication of the disease.

The preview parade composed of more than 5000 automobiles, floats and models of the buildings now under construction in the fair grounds will start from the Battery and move up Fifth Avenue and then on to the Fair grounds in Flushing.

Charity Ball on Program

Besides the review of the "motorcade" other events in the preview celebration include a "ball of tomorrow" sponsored by the Junior League, to be held in the newly completed Business Administration building on the night of April 29. The proceeds of the ball will be donated to charity.

A banquet to notable visitors will take place under Fair sponsorship on Saturday night, April 30, as a climax to the day's program.

The Victorious Servant

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson for Easter Sunday is Acts 2:22-36, the Golden Text being Acts 2:32, "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses.")

THE ABIDING proof of Christ's resurrection from the dead is his church confronting the world with its testimony, "This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses." Something had happened that changed Christ's disciples from cringing cowards to courageous crusaders. What made so great a change in these men in so short a space as three days? There is a resurrection within them that requires another resurrection to explain. Their faith and hope had expired at the cross with their master. But now, as Peter explains the change, they are "begotten again unto a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

The Cross Cheated

There was no question about Christ's death. The whole city had witnessed that. "Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God unto you by mighty works . . . even as ye yourselves know; him, being delivered up by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye by the hand of lawless men did crucify and slay; whom God raised up, having loosed the pangs of death; because it was not possible that he should be holden of it." The question was how the apparent victim of the cross had become the victor over the cross and the grave and death of which these were but the symbols. As Peter sees it now, it could not be otherwise. It was the only logical outcome that could have been expected by anyone who knew who Jesus really was.

A thousand years before the cross, David had foretold the Lord's saying, "Thou wilt not leave my soul unto Hades, neither wilt thou give thy Holy One to corruption."

see corruption." And Peter sees in those words the empty tomb of Easter morning, and concludes that David, "foreseeing this spake of the resurrection of the Christ, that neither was he left unto Hades (the place of the dead), nor did his flesh see corruption.

This Jesus did God raise up, whereof we all are witnesses." Easter was no incident, no accident, nor after thought of God; it was the grand objective and consummation of all the preceding ages, divinely planned "by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God." Christ had not been man-handled by death; instead, as Lord of life, he had handled death and made it serve God's eternal purpose in the redemption of the world. Death was but the tool of his supreme service to God and the world. Through it he was "the resurrection and the life," his own resurrection being the indisputable proof.

Our Living Hope

The "living hope" begotten in us by Christ's resurrection from the dead is that because he arose from the dead we too shall arise. His triumph over the grave predicts ours and is a preview of our own. His resurrection justifies in us "this pleasing hope, this fond desire, this longing after immortality." As sea birds in the heart of a continent, feel the instinct of the ocean in their blood and yield to the urge to migrate to a place they have never visited, so man feels the pull of another world upon his soul, and, as Milton said, "is pluming his wings for a flight."

WHEN A SUIT declarer sets up a long string of cards on which to take discards, the order of events is generally one of two diametrically opposed ways. Either trumps are run first, then the suit set up and run, or else the side suit is built up first and then the trumps are drawn. There are times, however, when the two things are done virtually simultaneously, with alternate leads of the two suits.

On this deal the bidding was opened by East with 1-Diamond, South called 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, East 3-Diamonds, South 4-Clubs, North 4-Diamonds, and East 4-Hearts, which South doubled. North went 4-Spades, which East doubled. Then South bid 5-Clubs, North six and South 7-Clubs, which East doubled.

The diamond 8 was led by West and won in the dummy. A spade was led and ruffed and the dummy entered by means of a trump to lead another spade. A second round of clubs was won in dummy and a third spade ruffed, setting up the remainder of that suit. The club J was overtaken by the K and four spades cashed. On the eleventh trick, East held the hearts K-Q and the diamond K, and South the hearts A-J and diamond 10. As South discarded after East, he won the remaining tricks.

South's bid was a bit daring, but North's diamond bid indicated no diamond losers and good trump support, so that the chances for success seemed favorable.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU- BY BOB BURNS

I never could see where folks got the idea that city people are smarter than farmers. Every time I read a story of some bunko racket it's about some city slicker that beats the so-called "yokel" out of some thing. Maybe the reason you don't hear so much about the other side of the story is because the "yokel" is too slick to be found out.

I remember some city people used to drive out to my uncle's farm to get milk. One day when I was there, my uncle looked down the road and he hollered to my aunt and says, "Here comes them city people... hurry up and warm the milk up. You know they want it fresh from the cow."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Speculating on the possibility that racketeers might declare themselves in on popular advertising contests that offer a fortune in prizes, "Everybody's Doing It," new RKO Radio film which opens tonight at the Cliftona Theatre co-starring Preston Foster and Sally Eilers, develops as a fast-moving comedy drama with strong romantic interest.

Foster and Miss Eilers are introduced as commercial artists romantically interested in each other. Temperamental differences lead to frequent quarrels, and during one of these Foster loses his job. He regains it, however, when he and Sally conceive the idea of a picture puzzle contest as a means to advance sales of a cereal.

AT THE GRAND

There was much excitement the day Walter McGrail, who is the heavy in "West of Rainbow's End," almost played a villain role in real life, for he slipped as he turned and the runaway bullet went right through McCoy's hat.

Director J. P. McGowan immediately stopped the fun, claiming it was too dangerous, and Tim was much chagrined at the loss of his favorite recreation. "West of Rainbow's End" concerns a cowboy G-Man on a secret mission of destruction — the mystery gang that killed his pal being the object of his wrath.

The cast includes, besides the star, Tim McCoy, Mary Carr, Bob Kortman, Kathleen Elliot, and Walter McGrail. It is at the Grand.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

I never could see where folks got the idea that city people are smarter than farmers. Every time I read a story of some bunko racket it's about some city slicker that beats the so-called "yokel" out of somethin'. Maybe the reason you don't hear so much about the other side of the story is because the "yokel" is too slick to be found out.

I remember some city people useta drive out to my uncle's farm to get milk. One day when I was there, my uncle looked down the road and he holloed to my aunt and says, "Here comes them city people . . . hurry up and warm the milk up. You know they want it fresh from the cow."

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Speculating on the possibility that racketeers might declare themselves in on popular advertising contests that offer a fortune in prizes, "Everybody's Doing It," new RKO Radio film which opens tonight at the Cliftona Theatre co-starring Preston Foster and Sally Eilers, develops as a fast-moving comedy drama with strong romantic interest.

Foster and Miss Eilers are introduced as commercial artists romantically interested in each other. Temperamental differences lead to frequent quarrels, and during one of these Foster loses his job. He regains it, however, when he and Sally conceive the idea of a picture puzzle contest as a means to advance sales of a cereal.

AT THE GRAND

There was much excitement the day Walter McGrail, who is the heavy in "West of Rainbow's End," almost played a villain role in real life, for he slipped as he turned and the runaway bullet went right through McCoy's hat.

Director J. P. McGowan immediately stopped the fun, claiming it was too dangerous, and Tim was much chagrined at the loss of his favorite recreation.

"West of Rainbow's End" concerns a cowboy G-Man on a secret mission of destruction—the mystery gang that killed his pal being the object of his wrath. The cast includes, besides the star, Tim McCoy, Mary Carr, Bob Kortman, Kathleen Elliot, and Walter McGrail. It is at the Grand.
